Why would I like to become a fire fighter?

I would like to become a fire fighter because there is nothing more valuable than life and fire fighting saves lives.

Becoming a fire fighter is something I could see myself doing for the rest of my life. I enjoy helping out the community as I have 890 community service hours and am hoping for more. When I was a little child, my father and I used to visit the Fire Station almost weekly. My dad is very good friends, with fellow fire fighter George Copeland he used to always bring me into the big red trucks and just let me sit there. I would feel very special and everyone used to say there's fire somewhere in her blood! We usually would then go to the kitchen and enjoy the delicious meals the fire men would cook that always put an even bigger smile on my face and I always thought this is what I want to be and become. When you are a fire fighter you have a lot of responsibilities that you have to follow and complete on a daily basis. You have to be brave and courageous. You have to make sure that you are a leader and are able to make executive decisions on your own that are in the best interest of your life as well as the person's life that you are saving.

I am a very brave and courageous person. I can make decisions that will affect me as well as the others around me I can make these decisions quickly and precisely. I enjoy helping out others as much as I possibly can. I play soccer during the summer and soccer for the school team; I also plan to try out for the school Badminton team as well. I enjoy going to the gym on a daily basis and making sure I am in the best physical and mental shape possible because I believe that these traits are very important. When you are a fire fighter you are faced with many life changing decisions. Whether it's pulling a person out of a burning building or house or if you are smashing a window in to save a person who was in an accident and trapped in their car.

I am a person who doesn't like to sit still. I enjoy multi-tasking and being able to be on the go during the day. The thought of being able to help others in need is something I want to do because I enjoy helping especially people in need. If I do become a fire fighter I would enjoy coming home at the end of my shifts and thinking wow I really did make a difference.

If being a fire fighter means being a caring individual, very active and involved in the community, then I am definitely the right person for this profession.
